

Pillowtalk

Longitude 131's 'glamp-orous' redesign

James and Hayley Baillie of Baillie Lodges (owners of Southern Ocean Lodge on Kangaroo Island and Capella Lodge on Lord Howe Island) have wasted no time sprinkling their design magic onto their newest baby, the iconic Uluru-facing glampsite, Longitude 131. The first stage of the redesign (costing a cool $2 million) includes a new fleet of Mercedes Benz luxury touring vehicles, contemporary furnishings commissioned by Melbourne designers Pierre and Charlotte, and eco-smart flares and fire pits. As for the bedding, sweet dreams are more or less guaranteed in bespoke Baillie beds, crafted by AH Beard, one of Australia's most esteemed bedding manufacturers. longitude131.com.au

Pretty in Pink

THE LANGHAM IN SYDNEY HAS ADDED A LONDON-STYLE TAXI (IMPORTED ALL THE WAY FROM THE UK) TO ITS RANKS; THE HACKNEY CARRIAGE SPORTS A BUBBLEGUM HUE TO MATCH THE HOTEL GROUP'S SIGNATURE PINK BRANDING. SYDNEY.LANGHAMHOTELS.COM.AU

TRYP Tease

Brisbane can pop another feather into its hipster hat (better make it a peacock feather) with a brand spanning new TRYP Hotel, set to open in September. This sleek hotel brings a triple whammy of cool to the already smokin' Fortitude Valley: works by acclaimed street artists Rone, Beastman, Magee and Numskull; a rooftop bar; and a 'beer and milkshake' Chur burger joint. But it's the glass, street-art-inspired bathroom basins plucking at AT's heartstrings. trybrisbane.com

TEXT BY PAT HIGGINS AND MICHELLE WRANIK