DO A LODGE-TO-LODGE TREK IN PERU

Trekking the Salkantay Trail to Machu Picchu, a five-day journey, will reward you not only with breathtaking vistas and rare glimpses into the lives of locals along the way, but you'll also finish every day with a gloriously hot shower and overnight stay at a luxury mountain lodge. The treks are moderate to challenging so you'll be able to indulge guilt free in an aperitif or two and divine locally inspired dishes. There are massages and spa treatments on offer to soothe those tired muscles, and goose-down bedding for you and your loved one to slumber as Mr and Mrs in comfort. These lodges combine modern design with ancient Incan architecture, and mesmerising views of Salkantay Peak, one of the most important mountains in Incan mythology. When it comes time to hit the trail the next morning, you can do so on foot or continue your pilgrimage to Machu Picchu on a sure-footed horse. Either way, it's sure to be the adventure of a lifetime.

GET OFF THE BEATEN TRACK IN GREENLAND

Newlyweds won't forget a visit to the Hotel Arctic in a hurry. It lies north of the Arctic Circle on the edge of Ilulissat Icefjord before a wondrous expanse of iceberg-dotted water. You'll be astounded at the ever-shifting shapes, colours and sounds of the ice sculptures - it's like nowhere else on Earth. From May to October, you can stay overnight in one of five unique igloo cabins where you and your sweetheart can look out across the cliffs of Disko Bay as the giant icebergs drift by. Kayaking these waters amid calving glaciers is an awe-inspiring experience, and there are opportunities to go dog sledding, boating and hiking. Restaurant Ulo is one of the country's best, producing gourmet fare with ingredients from Greenlandic fells and fjords.
