Let's Go Glamping

Sleeping on rocks and catching dinner in a nearby lake is not everyone's idea of fun, but glamping might be more enticing to the camping cynics. It's the 21st century version of camping with a glamorous twist. This is wanderlust at its best, where roomy canvas tents, soft lighting and comfy beds are situated in the most picturesque settings.

Yulara, Australia
Longitude 131°

Longitude 131° brings guests and nature face to face with its unending expanse of sky and secluded sand dune location. Its 15 white canvas tents are perched on stilts overlooking the Uluru-Kata Tjuta National Park, a UNESCO World Heritage site also known as Ayers Rock. Each canopy tent has floor-to-ceiling windows facing the massive red stone. Other luxury perks include oversized rain showers and king-size beds.

Ensenada, Baja California, Mexico
Endémico

Endémico is for wine lovers or maybe just lovers. Staggered on a secluded hill among giant boulders in the wine-growing region of Valle de Guadalupe, 20 eco-friendly cabins let the area's natural landscape do most of the talking. In the evenings the hill is dotted with lit clay kivas housed on private terraces.

Chiang Rai, Thailand
Four Seasons Tented Camp Golden Triangle

Deep in the bamboo jungles of the Golden Triangle is the Four Seasons Tented Camp and the land's most gentle giants. Take a bareback elephant trek to watch the sunrise over the Laos mountains and the Mekong River. Then head back to one of the property's 15 luxurious open-air tents, outfitted with custom-made wooden hot tubs and two-person, hand-hammered copper bathtubs. For an added bonus, book through Jacada Travel to experience a paddle through the Golden Triangle, between Thailand, Laos and Myanmar, on a sea kayak.

Isle of Wight, United Kingdom Priory Bay Hotel

The Isle of Wight flourished as a resort in the Victorian period, and Priory Bay Hotel is ideal for the astute traveler. Its five yurts, all uniquely designed, are perfectly British, complete with en suite bathrooms, expansive windows and cotton-linen sheets. Begin and end each day on the secluded terraces with candlelit lanterns overlooking the ocean. priorybay.co.uk

Greenough, Montana The Resort at Paws Up

Who knew camping and butlers went hand in hand? This ranch resort, staffed with attentive butlers and a skilled chef, is home to five luxury-tented camping areas complete with electricity, heat and rain showers. The tents are nestled on a 37,000-acre working Montana ranch. Tents in the Cliffside and Pinnacle areas overlook the union of the Blackfoot River and Elk Creek. Whichever camp you choose, there are plenty of s'mores to go around. pawsup.com

Tanzania, East Africa Nomad Tanzania

Several have tried but few have done as well as the 20-year-old safari company Nomad Tanzania. If you have a love for the African bush, then this authentic glamping safari will take you deep into the grass plains and river crossings where wildebeests and elephants roam and predators lurk. Its nine camps—located in three of the most remote corners of the country—feature raised open-front cottages and tents whose exterior and interior designs play with natural elements and luxury comforts. nomad-tanzania.com

Les Giettes, Switzerland Whitepod

On top of the Swiss Alps lie 15 dome-shaped tents. Each pod has a king-size bed, large bay windows and a deck that may or may not be covered in snow during the winter. Did we mention the private skiing, snowshoe trails, dog sledding and paragliding? The environmentally conscious property is now keeping its doors open through the summer. whitepod.com

Harads, Sweden
Treehotel

Only in Sweden would an elite group of architects design and build contemporary custom tree houses in the middle of unspoiled nature. Our favorite is the Mirrorcube, suspended approximately 14 feet above ground with walls covered in reflective glass, clad with infrared film visible only to the birds. Each room at Treehotel, including the Bird's Nest and the UFO, has unparalleled views of the Lule River and is surrounded by miles of forest. treehotel.se

Moab, Utah
Moab Under Canvas®

Sleep in a tepee under the stars or in a deluxe cabin. The Moab Under Canvas camp is equipped with running water and deck lounge chairs perfect for watching an uninterrupted sunset view of the Arches National Park. The days call for picnic lunches and hiking, biking and climbing excursions. moabundercanvas.com
